Thanks Abe - the BCC would be a helpful feature we would like to implement With regards to your second request this is really what the forward and forward as a new linked ticket options are designed for. If you sent an email to just one user on the ticket but the others were still on the ticket, they could potentially see the reply (not intended for them) in the user portal and in future email chains and histories

.Yes, the ability to BCC would greatly help with being able to reply to a Master Ticket
