Notifications in Deskpro help you stay on top of important updates without overwhelming you with unnecessary alerts. The key to managing your notifications effectively is understanding how they are linked to queues.

How Queues Affect Your Notifications

In Deskpro, queues are used to organize tickets based on specific criteria, such as department, status, or urgency. Your notification settings are directly tied to these queues, ensuring you receive updates relevant to your work. This means

- Whenever a ticket in your subscribed queues is updated or assigned, you can receive notifications tailored to your preferences.

- Each queue offers customizable notification options, allowing you to choose which updates matter most to you.
