Modify the selected form layouts that a new custom field is added to by default Collecting Feedback

Currently if you add a new custom field for tickets, all user and agent form layouts are selected by default. If you have lots of different department-specific form layouts, it can be time-consuming deselecting them all.

I propose having an option to select/deselect all, making it easier to modify the selected layouts. It would also be useful to be able to specify which layouts are selected by default.
