Approval request Finished

Dave Pigliavento •

Forum name: #Feature Request •

We often receive requests that need approval from a business owner. For example User X requests access to a file share that Manager X needs to approve before granting access. Generally we would send the approval request only to the manager and once they reply back .with authorization the request is fulfilled

This is a feature I would like to see as well. This would be a good example of a feature that .could be used when a user requests a piece of hardware or software as well

This is high on our hit list too. Though a couple of suggestions on how the flow may work: - Agent can select an email address from the submitting organisation to go to an Approver email address. - When the ticket is marked for approval, an email is sent to the requestor saying "your ticket has been submitted for approval by X at your orgainsation" - The Approver gets an email saying "you have a request to approve". This contains a link to a hidden page on the deskpro server e.g.

<https://helpdesk.com/requests/8fh43432u4j82kdpdnususufbd> - This page is a 1 time hit page so can only be used the once to approve/decline the request, at which point the request cant be changed again. - The page has an Approve/Decline button, with a comments section so that the Approver can state why they declined a request. - If the Approver approves the request, the ticket it sent back into the "awaiting tech" queue for processing by an engineer. - If the Approver declines the request, the original Requestor gets an email back saying their request was declined by X person in their organisation. (this avoids techs becoming involved in .(internal company politics and the "why was this declined" issue

We've requested this as well and at the time of the request (Dec, 2015), we were told that there's no solution as yet and that one workaround was to use the API to change the ticket

.Workflow state

This is something we would like to see as well: we often have to have a department supervisor approve equipment requisitions and things of that nature, so this would be a great .help

We would like to see this feature as well. It would be great if approvals could get triggered by different criterias. Also, internal approvals from agents for internal tickets would be great. Agent X has a specific request which needs to be approved by Agent Y (in the role of CISO for (example
