

Setting to disable email preview text (5.2)

2017-03-13 - Lauren Cumming - Comments (0) - Product

We have added a setting that allows you to disable email preview text. Many email clients will show you a preview of email contents (e.g Outlook and Gmail). Enable this option to enable smart preview text so your client will show proper message contents. Without this your email client might not be able to show accurate previews. Disable this feature if you don't want this information being shown via email. You can find this setting under Admin > Tickets > Email Accounts > Advanced Settings.

The screenshot shows the Deskpro Admin interface. On the left is a sidebar menu with options: Agents, Tickets, Emails, Email Accounts, Email Templates, CRM, User Interface, Chat, Voice, Apps, Tasks, Server, and Dev. The 'Emails' section is expanded, and 'Email Accounts' is selected. The main content area shows the 'Advanced Settings' for email accounts. The 'Enable email preview' setting is highlighted with a red box. It is currently checked, and the description states: 'When enabled preview text will appear in email. Enabled by default'.

☒ Enable email preview

When enabled preview text will appear in email. Enabled by default